Abbad Ali

Research assistant

abbad.ali.404@gmail.com · Atlanta, Georgia · LinkedIn

I'm Abbad Ali, a research assistant working with Professor Stephen H. Shore on the economics of AI safety.

EDUCATION

Georgia State University · J. Mack Robinson College of Business 2025-present
Graduate studies
Financial mathematics and quantitative risk analysis, with additional doctoral-level economics coursework.

Lahore University of Management Sciences 2019-2023
B.S. in Economics & Mathematics
Joint major.

RESEARCH AND PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Research assistant Aug 2025-present
Georgia State University · With Professor Stephen H. Shore
Economic modeling and quantitative analysis of existential risk from AI.

Strategy consultant · Government Delivery Unit Sep 2023-Sep 2025
The Palladium Group, Pakistan
Worked on healthcare planning, public-service delivery, and quantitative analysis for government initiatives in Punjab.

RESEARCH IN PROGRESS

Market-informed approaches to AI risk
Work in progress
Economic incentives, risk disclosure, and policy mechanisms for managing existential risk from AI.
With Stephen H. Shore

Beliefs and values about existential risk
Work in progress
Selection into, and the effects of, a course on existential risk.
With Stephen H. Shore; Ivy Diallo; Kae Gruner

TEACHING AND SERVICE

Course development · Quantification of Existential Risk Aug 2025-present
With Professor Stephen H. Shore, Georgia State University
Helped develop undergraduate materials connecting existential risk with probability, decision theory, and quantitative modeling.

ADDITIONAL TRAINING

Government Analytics Fellowship
The World Bank

Reproducible Research Methods
The World Bank